Missouri River,

Ozan Creek Hearing
at Prescott Aug. 16

The trend in the federal budget is increasingly unfavorable to actual appropriations for such Home Front projects as river valley improvements, since immediate cash is needed for the armed forces in Korea.

But plans have to be made for the future, and therefore it is important that local people remember a federal hearing date for next month — Wednesday, August 16, at Prescott. Here is the text of the announcement by the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, Vicksburg, Miss.:

"The Flood Control Act of 18 August 1941 provides for channel improvement consisting of clearing, snagging, removal of obstructions, and cut-off construction on Little Missouri river, Ark., from Murfreesboro to the mouth, and on Ozan creek, as features of the Little Missouri River Basin Project.

"A public meeting to consider modification of the project to include additional cutoffs in the above streams will be held by the undersigned at Prescott, Ark., at 10 a.m., on Wednesday, 16 August 1950, in the courtroom of the Nevada county courthouse.

"All interested parties are invited to be present or to be represented at the above time and place, particularly officials of any county, city, town, local association, or others whose interests may be affected by the proposed construction. They will be given an opportunity to express their views thereon. Oral statements may be made but for accuracy of record all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing. Written statements may be handed to the undersigned at the hearing or mailed to him beforehand."

Decisive Battle Is On

Shanhouse, in 5th Year, Employs 189

In 1946 Hope was presented with the opportunity of establishing a nationally recognized industry in the city.

W. Shanhouse Sons, Inc. of Rockford, Ill., entered into negotiations with the Chamber of Commerce whereby the company agreed to locate in Hope if a suitable building was made available. The Chamber of Commerce organized the Hope Industrial corporation and by means of the sale of stock to local businesses the construction of a modern building in downtown Hope became a reality.

As this company begins its fifth year of operations in our city it is perhaps appropriate that we turn our attention to this industry to determine whether or not the people of Hope have made a sound investment.

Shanhouse began operations in temporary quarters on South Walnut street in July 1946 and moved to their present location in June of 1947. The company had made a pledge to employ all local personnel with the exception of supervisory. This pledge has been kept. Starting with a small nucleus of lead personnel local employment in the plant is now at an all time high of 189 employees. This employment represents a yearly pay roll a total volume of business by the local concern exceeding two and a half million dollars. Because this company was careful in building up its employment, local people were sometimes of the opinion that the raising of local money which made this plant possible was a poor investment. The picture today conveys such opinion, both because the employment made possible the increase of local industrial pay roll, and the favorable nation-wide publicity which has grown continually during the past four years.

The local plant produces approximately 43,000 sport and work jackets per year with shipments to retail outlets and the Rockford distributing center averaging 100 daily. Not only has the plant filled to capacity the building originally constructed but have taken over the adjacent warehouse for storage and shipping purposes and currently are using one of the buildings at the proving ground.

Raw materials for the manufacture of jackets are received from the Carolinas and the East, and each jacket represents 49 separate operations. The cutting department, by means of the latest equipment, cuts out 150 pieces in one operation. The average jacket is composed of better than 30 pieces of cloth.

The local plant manufactures jackets for men and boys only. These jackets are both lined and unlined, sport and work, with a variety of types suitable to all parts of the country.

Jack Cleary is the local plant manager and is ably assisted by the following key personnel: Mr. Milt Richards, cutting room superintendent; Mrs. Mable Sims, superintendent of the lined jackets department; Mrs. Velma Cox, superintendent of the unlined jackets department, and Phil Del Vecchio, superintendent of maintenance.

All personnel of the plant are given special aptitude tests by the local employment office to determine finger dexterity and general capabilities. The plant officials have several times stated that they have been more than satisfied with the local employees both because of their aptitude of learning and because of their ability to produce to capacity work of the highest type.

Home Front
Problems Up to President

Washington, July 28 — (P) — President Truman and his cabinet discussed problems of the home front in a 45 minute session today.

Vice President Barkley told reporters that the meeting covered "all phases of economic controls" in a general way.

Other conferees said that the all out mobilization recommended by Bernard M. Baruch came up only in a casual way.

The cabinet officers said the situation in Korea did not come under review.

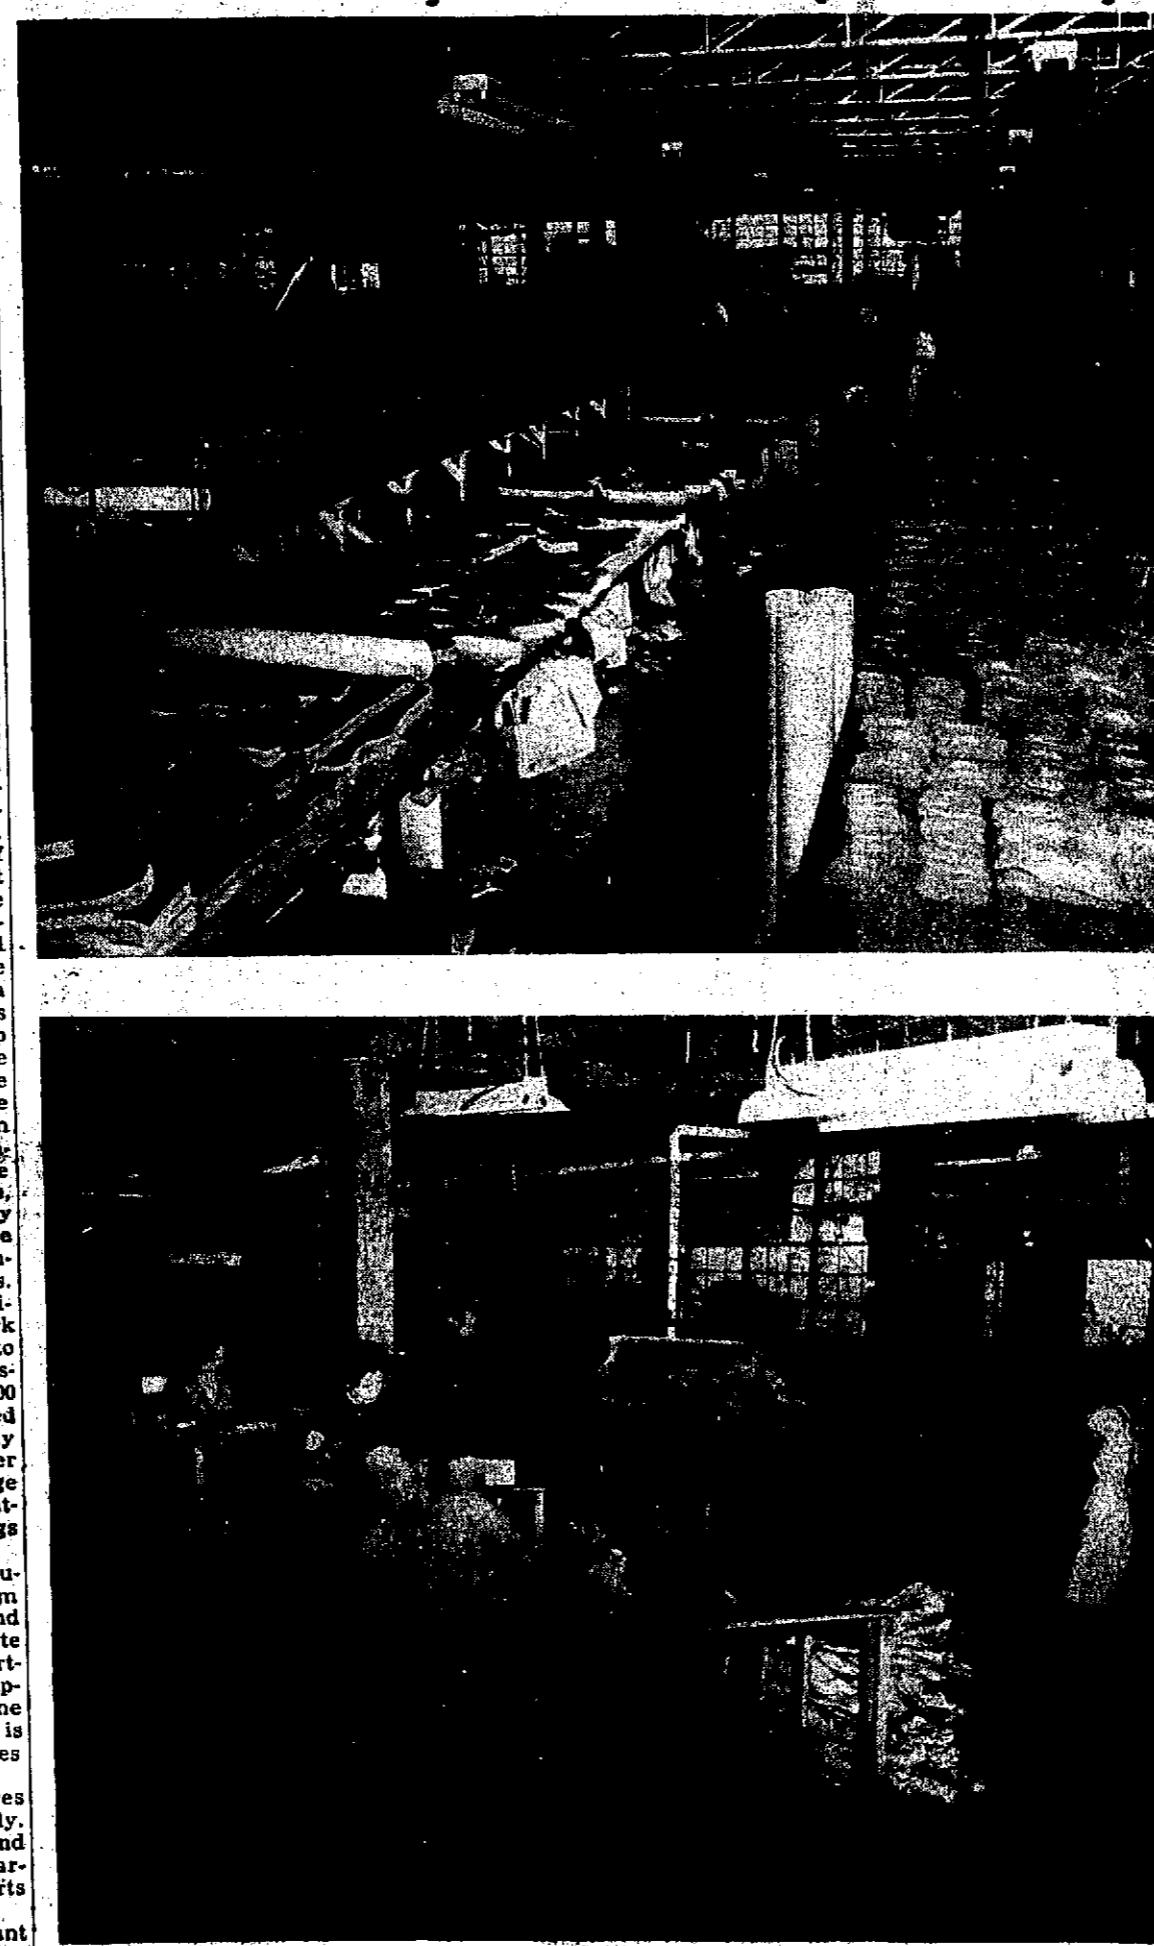

Secretary of Defense Johnson also emphasized the domestic aspects of the conference. He pointed out that Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, did not attend.

Korean War Is Race Against Time — Against What Russia May Do If We're Kicked Out

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, July 28 (P) — The government is racing against time to win the Korean conflict and arm for possible war with Russia with full knowledge that a continued poor U. S. showing in one could easily bring on the other.

When might Russia drop her mask and step openly into war? The guess by some highly placed officials is three years. Others, at equally high level, think the time could be less.

Russia is watching us in Korea to see how we fight. We are fighting badly now. If the final showing is the same, the Kremlin may not wait three years.

Also, the time estimate could be wrong. We were wrong in our guess about how soon Russia could make its first atomic bomb.

The administration reportedly is talking now about a $35,000,000 outlay in this fiscal year, which began July 1. That would include money for fighting the current war for building up against the mounting menace of another, bigger one for making the free European nations stronger, militarily and economically, by giving them more arms aid and more economic help.

One of the major problems is manpower.

Here the feel of urgency is really apparent. Last Tuesday, Presi-

Man Killed by Train Near Buckner

Stamps, July 28 — (P) — Joe Moses, about 48, Lafayette county farmer, was killed by a Cotton Belt train two miles east of Buckner yesterday.

The train crew said he was sitting on the rails apparently asleep and that they did not see him in time to stop. Columbia county Coroner Fred Lewis ruled his death accidental.

His only survivor is his wife. Funeral services will be held today at Shiloh Baptist church, north of Stamps.

Russia Ends Boycott of United Nations

By A. I. GOLDBORG

Lake Success, July 28 (P) — Russia late yesterday announced the end of her boycott of the United Nations security council. Her chief U. N. delegate, Jakob A. Malik, said he would take over the council presidency on schedule Aug. 1. The full meaning of the Russian return could not be evaluated immediately. It threatened vetoes over future council actions on the Korean conflict or on any other action the Russians oppose.

But there appeared here no way the Russians could recall actions already taken, although they have branded U. N. intervention in Korea illegal because the Soviet Union was not represented at the meetings, and the Chinese Nationalists were.

Alphabetical rotation of the council presidency among its members gives Russia its regular term in August.

Malik, a Soviet deputy foreign minister, gave no indication that he intended to attend today's security council meeting. Its announced purpose is to hear what council members have to say about the review of U. N. military operations in Korea, received this week from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The council also had planned today to insure its war crisis operations in August by designating a temporary president — reportedly British Sir Gladwyn Jebb — to serve if Malik did not show up next month.

Malik notified Secretary-general Trygve Lie yesterday in a tele-

North Korea Tanks Sink in the River

By REILMAN MORIN

Tokyo, Saturday, July 29 — Red North Korean tanks were destroyed in a severe tank duel in the Korean battle for the Yalu River.

The North Korean tanks, attacking in the early morning, were held in a strong position by the Chinese forces.

The heaviest blow was against the Chinese forces in the central sector, east of Yantung.

General attacks in the morning, including a tank fire, were concentrated against the Chinese.

First Cavalry division, 150 miles east of Yantung, was held in a strong position.

The First Cavalry, however, lost some ground in the Hwang River vicinity, 15 miles east of Yantung, but were last reported holding firmly against three Chinese divisions.

Twenty miles farther south, elements of the Red 14th division drove a small wedge between U. S. 23rd division and the South Korean 21st division near the village of MacArthur's headquarters, and drove out the Chinese.

It was the third day of fighting, and the Chinese were holding the line.

As the North Korean tanks invaded South Korea, President Truman said he had promised to increase the American forces.

"So far we have not been able to do much, but we are continuing to do what we can."

The main weight of their attack was aimed at two American divisions holding a strategic mountain.

There's Nothing Wrong in Korea, Says Hal Boyle, That Some More Troops Can't Fix

By HAL BOYLE

An Advanced Hot Spot In Korea — (P) — This is a quick letter to any G. I. who went through the Second World War and wants to know what things are like here.

Dear Joe:

This is the way it is. The real problem is that we need more men in the battlefield than we have to win a quick decision.

At the top the generalship is good, and experienced. The basic problems of the general has been to spread a small number of troops thin and to ask too much of them — because that was all that could be done under emergency circumstance.

Now the task is only to beef up the forces we have — and victory is inevitable. This can be done by putting more men in the line and equipping them with more and more of the fine new weapons we have developed since 1945.

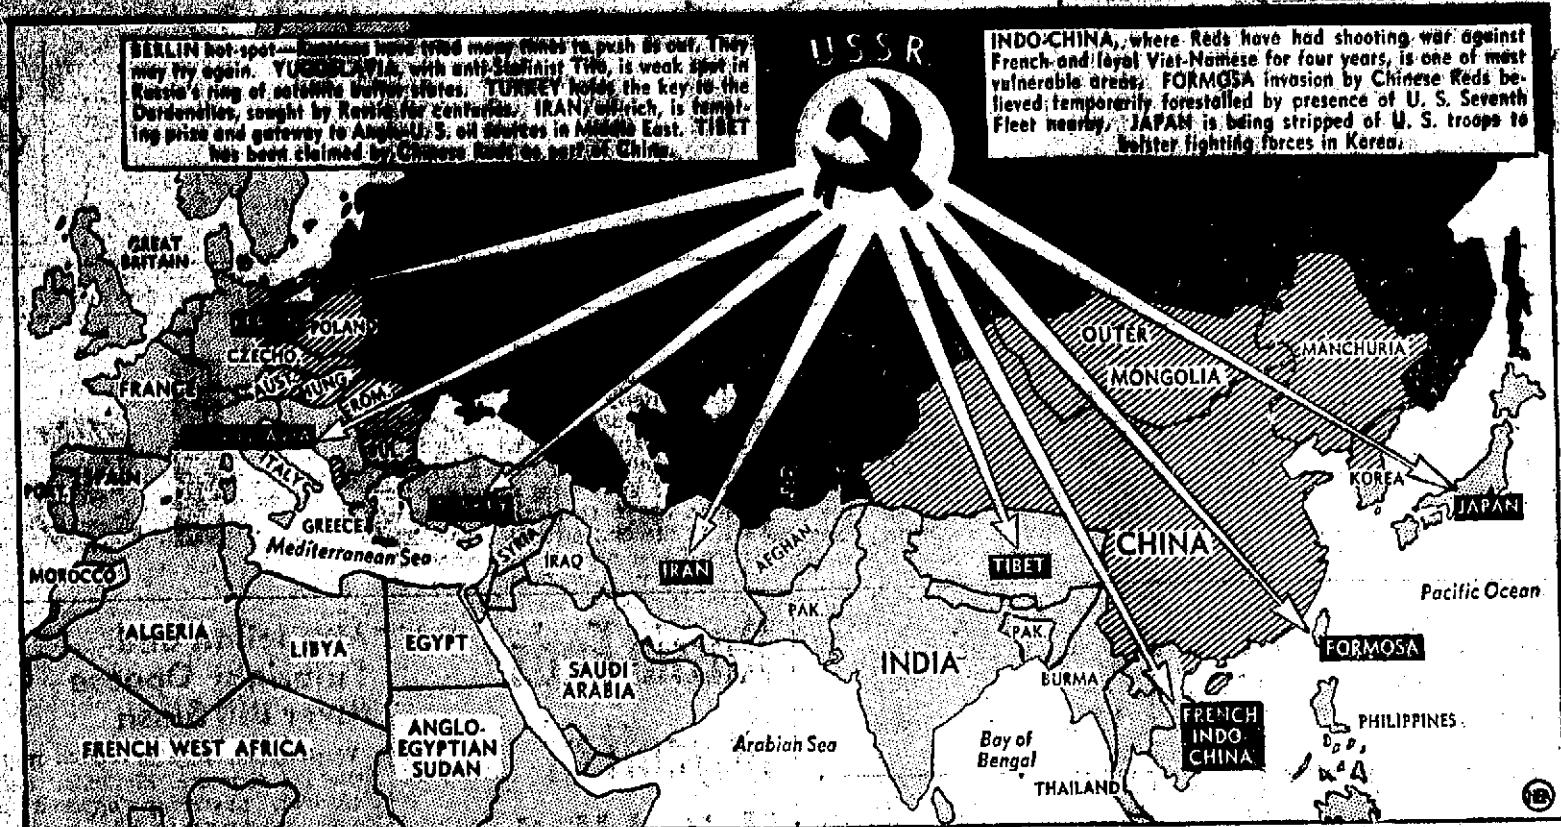

Just to let you know how things are I will tell you what happened to me in my first day's visit to the front.

It was roughly about a 160-mile round trip to get to the front and back. It was encouraging to see the mass American muscle moving up. The rock-ribbed roads had old stones sticking up through them. Dust rose in gray clouds so thick that at mid-day ammunition trucks turned their lights on to warn jeep drivers of the way.

And the Korean railway trains went by loaded with enlisted men.

BERLIN hot-spot—Russia is more than a push-over. They may be again. YUGOSLAVIA, with anti-Soviet Tito, is weak now in Kest's ring of satellite buffer states. TURKEY holds the key to the Dardanelles, sought by Russia for control. IRAN/Qurich, is holding press and gateway to Arab oil. S. CHINA is in Middle East. TIBET holds the key to India and Russia.

INDO-CHINA, where Reds have had shooting war against French and loyal Viet-Namese for four years, is one of most vulnerable areas. FORMOSA invasion by Chinese Reds believed temporarily forestalled by presence of U. S. Seventh Fleet nearby. JAPAN is being stripped of U. S. troops to bolster fighting forces in Korea.

ANOTHER EMERGENCY —

CIRCUS FOR SANDRA—This was a circus performance on Main Street in Oconto, Wis. It wasn't a big circus—only one act—but it gave a big thrill to a bedridden girl who doesn't have long to live. The performance was for nine-year-old Sandra Medd, seen propped up in the window at left. A circus performer puts the elephant through its paces for the little girl who is doomed to die of cancer.

INDIAN MAID—A far cry from the days of her grandfather, Comanche chief Quannah Parker, pretty Jeanne Carmen does things for feathers no chief could ever do. Jeanne's now in New York as a professional model, where, instead of war whoops, she hears wolf whistles.

STAMP OF JUSTICE—The judicial branch of the government is commemorated on this three-cent stamp which will go on first day sale in Washington, D. C., on August 2. Central design on the purple stamp is a reproduction of the Supreme Court Building.

(YOUNIOR CLASS)—Seven-year-old Hart, of Detroit, Mich., thought he heard the man on the radio say a boy of seven could enlist in the Marine Corps, so he decided to go to the recruiting station. "No, Hart ever enlisted," he told Marine Capt. Garth Sturdevan. Capt. Sturdevan took Tommy's fingerprints and signed him up as a YOUNIOR CLASS. That's his honorary membership card. Hart is the son of his friend, Donald Poniatowski.

JUMPIN' CATFISH! FLYING ELEPHANTS?—There's no telling how many toppers switched to water after watching this herd of three flying "elephants" being put through their paces at Beaulieu, Eng., by Flight Sgt. J. D. Hayhow, ringmaster. The floppy-eared pachyderms are really Royal Air Force helicopters—surprised?—in rehearsal for the RAF's "Helicopter Circus" at Farnborough.

AWKWARD AS A WHAT?--This actual bull that actually got into a china shop at Malvern, Worcester, England, did exactly what a bull in a china shop is said to do—but he didn't do it until he was provoked. The scene, calling for mass destruction of china, was staged during the filming of a documentary film. The bull, named Maderfield Champion, behaved all too nicely until they brought in his girl friend (foreground). Then he went on a rampage and behaved like any bull in any china shop. /

WAR IS LIKE THIS—A scene of pathos is caught in this remarkable picture taken at a first-aid station somewhere near the battle front in South Korea. An Army chaplain bends over a wounded American soldier, comforting him as best he can.

BOMBARDIER'S VIEW OF KOREAN TERRAIN—A U. S. B-29 wings over the rugged battle-ground "somewhere in Korea." Much of the Korean fighting, particularly in the eastern area and around the Kum River, is in mountainous country like this.

BUT, MOM, I WAS AFRAID OF A SPANKING—The news camera catches a poignant scene as it records a mother's emotions when she was reunited with her "lost" son, found safe after an all-night search. She is Mrs. Nellie Varney, of Cleveland, Ohio. Her six-year-old son, Larry, out to play, didn't show up for dinner nor did he appear after darkness fell. Frantic parents and friends searched the neighborhood. A missing person report was flashed by police radio throughout the city. Finally, shortly after dawn the next day, a neighbor wandered into the Varney garage. There—cold, stiff, dirty and scared—she found Larry under a pile of wall-board fragments. The boy said he didn't come home because he was afraid of getting a spanking for being late. "No, you're not going to get a spanking," said his father, Kenneth Varney. "But you're certainly going to be grounded."

Here is Mrs. Clark's statement: "Before I started taking HADACOL I was troubled with nervous indigestion. My stomach was just tied in knots when I would sit down to eat. You can imagine how I enjoyed my food and how much good it did me. It affected my sleep too—there was many a night I lay awake for hours and hours. I heard about HADACOL and have been taking it ever since. I have no more stomach distress. I enjoy my food and I sleep like a top every night of the week. I started my husband taking HADACOL and he, too, says that now he has never felt better in his life. I just can't thank HADACOL enough—and, of course, I recommend it to all my friends."

Harris Wins 10 Counties for Congress

Congressman Oren Harris won re-nomination for the Seventh District by a clear majority of approximately 4840 votes over his two opponents, assuring him of re-election.

The result as reported from the 11 counties in the District gave Congressman Harris 25,920; Vernon Whitten 19,405 and Tomie Short 1875.

This gives the incumbent Congressman a lead of 6,515 over Vernon Whitten throughout the District.

Harris carried every county in the District except Columbia, Whitten's home County. This was Whitten's second unsuccessful attempt to unseat the Congressman. The Magnolia man made his first race against Harris in 1938.

In a public statement Mr. Harris said "I am gratified at the result of Tuesday's Primary. I am deeply grateful for another expression of confidence of the people of this District, giving me the biggest majority I have ever received since I have been privileged to serve this District in Congress."

"I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the people of this District for their faithful and loyal friendship. I shall continue to give my very best in this responsible position to merit the confidence of the people."

I want to especially express my heartfelt thanks to Mr. Dawson Hawkins, my campaign managers, for his fine and loyal assistance in making this campaign successful.

"I will return to Washington in the next few days to help complete this year's program and the emergency legislation in connection with the present crisis. I shall continue through this session and the next Congress to serve all the people of our District in these great legislative programs to the very best of my ability."

Harris was Arkansas' only Congressional Representative with Democratic opposition. His nomination is equivalent to election.

Returns give Harris a substantial majority, by counties as follows:

Marked Ballots Found on Election Official's Person

Fayetteville, July 28—(P)—Washington county Sheriff Bruce Crider was reported finding two marked ballots on the person of an election official in the Brush Creek township after Tuesday's Democratic primary.

Americans and Koreans were fighting to hold passes through the rugged Soeback mountains guarding the American supply lines to the northern fronts. The spine of the mountain ridge extends northeast from Sunchon to Yongdok. Right through the center is the Taejon-Taegu highway, winding generally northwest from Taeju. Yondong and Hwanggan are virtually in the center of that pass. This is where the battle is reaching its greatest intensity.

Lie's office notified all other members of the council immediately, including T. F. Tsing, Chinese Nationalist delegate whose continued presence in the United Nations over Russian protest set off the Soviet boycotts that finally extended to 30 U. N. groups.

There was no indication whether the break in the boycott would bring the Russians back into other U. N. bodies.

Nor was there indication how long the Soviets would remain or what would be their attitude toward the U. N. general assembly opening Sept. 19.

Speculation over the surprise action was varied.

In Washington, some government officials said they suspected Russia wants to block further U. N. action on Korea. They said Russia's return without the expulsion of Nationalist China—and the admission of Communist China—represents a diplomatic victory for the West.

One U. N. source expressed the opinion that "this is complete reversal of poliburo policy" and predicted the Russians are back to stay a while.

FUNNY FACE

By James Gunn

THE STORY: Jack Lanning and Ellie Lane, old friends at since quite a bit, were members of a dance team. Ellie, not ugly, was funny-faced, but she had convinced herself she was the right wife of a handsome man named Jack, who was bewildered and couldn't understand why. Jack got another dancer, Janet, and went to Broadway looking for a job. The next thing I heard was that she had a small part in a Broadway comedy and the audience loved her.

When the play had been running a few months she phoned me.

ELLIE LANE did not mention

Jack Lanning again during our conversation and that letter was the last one Jack wrote. For a while he sent occasional presents to Janet. His dance team broke up—his new partner's looks did not make up for her lack of comedy—and from time to time I heard he was acting in road companies and on the coast. Then I heard nothing at all.

Ellie's play ran for more than a year. The next season she had parts in two plays. I saw a good deal of her, and I could not help thinking that the separation from Jack had been the best thing for her. She gained enormously in assurance. In her quiet way she was a tower of strength.

When I was depressed, invariably, I called Ellie. She never failed to encourage me or to make me laugh at my troubles.

Before a year was over she had an impressive number of real friends. It occurred to me with a little shock that she might marry again. I hoped and then shrugged the thought aside. A second marriage did not fit in with my picture of Ellie. I was, of course, a fool. But I do not believe things have been different if I had been otherwise.

The third year after the divorce she had her first real break. It was in a comedy, of course. Her part was a large one, and perfect for her—the wisecracking friend

I heard her catch her breath at the other end of the line. Finally she said: "What makes you think I'll see him? Have you heard anything lately?"

"No, but Hollywood was the last place he showed up."

She gave a quick, nervous half laugh. "That doesn't mean anything, you know that. He's so restless. Heaven knows where he is by now. Anyway, I'm only going to be there four weeks."

I did not see her again, except on the screen, for 15 years.

ELLIE was signed for the picture almost as soon as they tested her for the part. She made quite a hit. I saw it and was amazed at how well she photographed. She was not pretty, but her large eyes and sharp features took beautifully to the camera.

During the next few years she worked incessantly.

"The stars fight to have me in their pictures," one letter said. "My face offers absolutely no competition."

Most of her parts were in the same vein, wisecracking secretaries and telephone operators, and occasionally a society mifit. Once through some unexpected bit of casting, she appeared as a showgirl. I will never forget my shock when I saw Ellie on the screen done up in feathers and sequins.

At the end of three years Eleanor Lane was a well-established feature player. Parts were written or rewritten for her, and her style was ineptly copied by newer comedienne.

But about her personal life she wrote nothing. I found out about Ben Mallon through mutual friends, and filled in the gaps with what Ellie told me years later.

She met Ben when she was 31. He was a cameraman, 10 years older than she; tall, and agreeably ugly, and very shy. He was almost a recluse when Ellie met him on the set of a picture. People said she took pity on him, but that was never true: Ellie did not have the arrogance to feel pity for anyone. Quite simply she liked Ben at first sight and liked him more as she came to know him.

She invited him to her house and brought him into her circle of friends. Slowly he expanded. He learned how to relax with people, and some of Ellie's simplicity in making friends. He was solid and decent and he began to reveal a sly, kind of humor he had bottled up for years.

Before long he was invariably her escort. He was very fond of Janet and he grew into the habit of spending Sundays alone with Ellie and the girl. One night after Janet had gone to bed—it was almost a year to the day from the time he had met Ellie—Ben asked her about Jack Lanning.

taking care of the babies to give her a rest. She can get a good night's sleep. She can sit down and relax. She is a good mother.

During the next few years she worked incessantly.

"The stars fight to have me in their pictures," one letter said. "My face offers absolutely no competition."

Most of her parts were in the same vein, wisecracking secretaries and telephone operators, and occasionally a society mifit. Once through some unexpected bit of casting, she appeared as a showgirl. I will never forget my shock when I saw Ellie on the screen done up in feathers and sequins.

At the end of three years Eleanor Lane was a well-established feature player. Parts were written or rewritten for her, and her style was ineptly copied by newer comedienne.

But about her personal life she wrote nothing. I found out about Ben Mallon through mutual friends, and filled in the gaps with what Ellie told me years later.

She met Ben when she was 31. He was a cameraman, 10 years older than she; tall, and agreeably ugly, and very shy. He was almost a recluse when Ellie met him on the set of a picture. People said she took pity on him, but that was never true: Ellie did not have the arrogance to feel pity for anyone. Quite simply she liked Ben at first sight and liked him more as she came to know him.

8 State Races Are Left for August 8 Vote

Little Rock, July 28—(AP)—Eight state senate races will be decided in Arkansas' Aug. 8 Democratic primary.

Terms of 17 of the state's 35 senators expire this year. Of the 17, incumbents will be renominated without opposition for six places, and three races were decided in Tuesday preferential primary.

Without opposition are John W. Closser, Springdale; Ellis M. Fagen, Little Rock; G. Lawrence Blackwell, Pine Bluff; Bert S. Smith, Jonesboro; Lamar L. Rodgers, West Memphis, and James P. Baker, Helena.

Senators Guy Jones, Conway, and Lee Bearden, Leachville, won renomination Tuesday, and James D. Johnson, Crosscut, was nominated in the race to succeed Sen. Homer C. Burnside, Lake Village, who did not seek re-election.

Three of the senate races to be voted on Aug. 8 are runoffs from the preferential primary. They are in the 13th district, where Max Howell and Bob Riley, Little Rock, were the top candidates for the seat of retiring Sen. Ed Dillon; Little Rock in the 28th district, where W. J. Hurst, Recator, and Dr. J. E. Smith, Conway, were top candidates to succeed retiring Sen. J. Ed Thompson, Paragould, and in the 14th district, where Q. Byrum Hurst and M. C. Lewis, Jr., Hot Springs, were the top contenders to succeed Sen. Ernest Maner.

The other senate races for the Aug. 8 primary are:

Third district, Edward H. Patterson and Wiley W. Bean, Clarksville.

Seventh district, Sen. Ernest Nicholson and Roy Milum, both of Harrison.

Ninth district, Dr. F. C. Crow, Hope, incumbent, and J. Paul Hulsey, Norman.

Twenty-first district, J. M. Mack, Moorefield, and James M. Troy, Batesville.

Twenty-second district, W. E. Fletcher, Scott, and J. Tweddell Gunter, Austin.

Chemicals Used in Purifying of Water Regulated

Little Rock, July 28—(AP)—The Arkansas board of health yesterday adopted regulations governing fluoridation of drinking water in an effort to combat dental cavities.

The board said it would neither "promote or discourage" cities in adding fluorides to drinking water. The regulations set maximum fluoridation and provide for tests and reports.

The board increased from 60 to 75 per cent the federal participation share in costs of new federal-aid hospital projects. The increase is in line with the boost in the maximum allowable federal contribution.

Opens Sunday at Saenger

LAUREN BACALL and GARY COOPER in a dramatic scene from Warner Bros. "BRIGHT LEAF," with Jack Carson and Patricia Neal.

Gary Cooper is one Hollywood star whose presence in a motion picture immediately assures moviegoers of plenty of action. Not that the elongated, handsome Montana actor is a western or underworld picture hero, but rather his romantic dramas, usually against a background of historical or important moment, seem to leave much opportunity for excitement.

Take "Saratoga Trunk" for example. In this picturization of the Edna Ferber novel, Cooper took time off from his tempestuous lovemaking with Ingrid Bergman to lead a group of henchmen against a rival gang for the possession of a railroad. Plenty action.

"Task Force," a brilliant film depicting the career of one of our aircraft carriers in World War II, Cooper again went through several battles to provide movie fans with a truthful story. "The Fountainhead" saw more fire and brimstone when Cooper, as the architect hero of the famed novel, dynamited an entire building project at the climax of the story.

Now comes "Bright Leaf," Warner Bros.' latest film starring Gary Cooper, which makes its local debut at the Saenger Theatre on Sunday. Taken from the novel, this story is an epic drama of a tobacco empire in the days of the old South. Loving two beautiful women, Patricia Neal and Lauren Bacall, Cooper nevertheless will not disappoint the action fans who will see a pistol duel shooting, a battle royal with a medicine show involved, and a burning mansion among other events.

Michael Curtiz directed.

'Hank' Fort on Lion Radio Show Sunday

"Hank" Fort, talented composer and singer of popular songs, will be the special guest of Snooky Lanson on Lion Oil's "Sunday Down South" on Sunday, July 3, on the Lion Network at 5 p.m. The broadcast is carried locally by EXAR.

"Hank" Fort (actually Elizabeth Hankins Fort, of the Nashville Social Register) is a hill-billy singer who turned professional about six months ago after a period of several years during which she composed at least 10 songs. Among these, "Put your Shoes On, Lucy" and "I Didn't Know The Gun Was Loaded" were high on the coast-to-coast hit parade.

"Hank" is the daughter of a prominent painter in the South. She plays her own piano in her appearances and her singing is a fairly recent accomplishment mainly because no one can interpret her songs quite like she can. Her singing style took New York by storm when she played her first engagement at No. 1 Fifth Avenue—the same spot that first featured Dorothy Shay as the Park Avenue Hill-Billy. "Hank" Fort's appearance will highlight the "Sunday Down South" broadcast this coming Sunday.

Singing stars Snooky Lanson and Dottie Dillard, Comedy-star "Lige," the Lion Orchestra and Chorus will all contribute to a full half-hour of musical entertainment.

Controversy Over Accused Rapist Goes on

Laurel, Miss., July 28—(AP)—Willie McGee missed a date with an electric chair date yesterday.

And the Mississippi judge who sentenced him three times for raping a white woman criticized the stay of execution by a U. S. Supreme court justice.

Circuit Court Judge F. Currlett, in a prepared statement, declared here yesterday he knew of "no law or precedent" for the action of Justice Harold Burton of the U. S. Supreme court in granting the stay Wednesday.

He said he had been asked repeatedly by what authority Justice Burton acted.

In Cleveland, Miss., Gov. Fielding Wright angrily termed the civil rights congress of New York, which sent delegates to Mississippi to seek executive clemency for the 37-year-old Negro, as "the slimiest, filthiest group I ever had to deal with."

He charged "the civil rights congress cares nothing for Willie McGee. It has a planned program to destroy the judicial system of each and every state."

Paragould Youths Admit Firing Car

Paragould, July 28—(AP)—Three local young men have been arrested in connection with the burning of an automobile six miles west of here on June 17.

State Police Sgt. Wyatt Patrick and Special Agent Nelson Reese of the national auto thief bureau made the announcement today. They identified the three men as Charles Kenneth Boone, 21; Richard Collins, 18, and Earl Jeter, 18, all of Paragould. A fourth man, now in Michigan, is sought.

Officers said the three men admitted pouring gasoline on the seats of the car and setting it afire. The car belonged to Boone.

The men, held in Greene county jail, will be charged with arson today. Sheriff Loy Newberry stated.

If caught in the open by an approaching tornado, experts advise you to run, not walk, at right angles to its path. You may be able to get out of the way.

Mississippi up to the ridicule of the world."

McGee, thrice convicted for an attack on a Laurel housewife in 1935, was returned to a Jackson jail yesterday. His first two convictions were overruled on technicalities by the Mississippi Supreme court.

Judge Collins said "he has not been removed from the Jone's county jail by any order of mine. I ordered him brought here."

To be kept until he was executed. The stay is expected to remain in effect at least until the U. S. Supreme court reconvenes this fall.
